

Bighill Lake

Big Hill Lake is a hidden treasure of the Yellowknife area. Accessible by driving down the Ingraham Trail to Madeline Lake (25 kilometers east), with access and parking available on a rough pull out on the south side of the highway. The 6 kilometer round-trip hiking trail is well marked in the summer months only. It is a great destination for an over night camping trip. No facilities are provided.

There is a pull-off that can be used for parking while accessing the trail. It is located approximately 1 km before the Madeline Lake Day-use Area. The trail is marked by blue tape on trees but is not landscaped.
